Class Project Vote Scheduled On Five School Improvements

Balloting for the sophomore class project will be conducted Tuesday.

Five proposed projects, selected by class project committee, will be voted upon. Voting to take place from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at booths in Eyring Science Center. Spurs, sophomore honorary and service group, will take charge of the election.

One proposed project calls for modernizing the "lovers lane" between the Maeser Building and the Smith Fieldhouse. The lane, overgrown, would be returned to its once prominent place at Brigham Young University, according to Georganna Wood, project chairman.

Three of the other projects deal with the new Student Union Building. Proposed is: furnishing mirrors for the walls; trophy display cases and the furnishing of senate chambers.

Another proposal is the placing of a large welcoming sign at the entrance of the university.

Approximately $500 has already been collected for the project from class members. The balance is to be collected jointly with class dues at registration, reports Miss Wood.

Members of the Sophomore project committee are: chairman, Georganna Wood, Twin Falls, Ida.; Beverly Whitford, Long Beach, Calif.; and Connie Waddoups, Bountiful.

U.S. Alerts Navy, Air Force Units As Precaution After Suez Flareup

International News Service
UNITED STATES military units were revising schedules and deployment plans Thursday in a "tighten defenses without flexing muscles" move as a result of the Suez and Hungarian crises.

Ships of the U. S. Pacific Fleet were ordered to speed their westward movements and Atlantic Fleet vessels, including the super-aircraft carrier Forrestal, are assembling into a powerful task force in the Atlantic.

AT THE SAME TIME, the Air Force announced that it has revised its global flight schedules so that a "large percentage" of its jet fighters and atomic bombers will be in the air at all times, ready for emergency action.

Meanwhile, well informed diplomatic sources said Israel has accepted President Eisenhower's plea to remove its troops from Egypt and cooperate fully with the United Nations police force.

The Defense Department announced Wednesday that all normal training for air and sea units had been abandoned under a "Readiness Alert" ordered by the Joint Chiefs of Staff when the Egypt-Israel conflict erupted Oct. 29.

A PENTAGON spokesman said the "readiness" movements are continuing despite the lull in the Middle East fighting. The spokesman said the redeployment orders had these objectives:

1. To assure dispersal of ships and planes as a safeguard against any possible repetition of the Pearl Harbor debacle which plunged the U. S. into World War II.

2. To station powerful units at points from which they could strike strategically should the Middle East conflict or the tense situation behind the Iron Curtain explode suddenly into a general war.

Acceptance by Israel of Eisenhower's plea would mean a sharp reversal of Ben-Gurion's assertion that Israel would bar any foreign force from territory her troops are occupying.

THE DEVELOPMENT came Thursday after French Ambassador Herve Alphand held a secret, 20-minute conference with Eisenhower. Alphand told newsmen: "I saw the President at the request of my government. I cannot make any statement."

The Ambassador declined to say whether the conference was in connection with the Middle East crisis, but from other sources it was determined that the conflict in which Britain and France have intervened was the topic of discussion.

Earlier, the President held a two-and-one-half-hour meeting with his top strategic advisers to work out plans for the U. S. Air Force to airlift the U. N. Middle East police troops and to counter Soviet threats in the strategic, oil-rich area.

EISENHOWER met with the National Security Council as nine foreign envoys conferred with various top-level U. S. diplomats on the Middle East problem.

Study Facilities Expand To Ease Overcrowding

Study facilities have been expanded for Brigham Young University students.

Rooms have been made available in the evenings in the McKay Building, according to Naomi Rich, librarian, for students to use as study rooms.

Panel Discussions Conducted Today On Art Collection

A program relating to the Guggenheim paintings, now on display in the mezzanine of the Eyring Science Center, will be given Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the foyer of the same building.

Featured will be a panel discussion and short sketches of the history of each of the artists represented in the exhibit.

Moderating the panel will be Dr. Conan Mathews, new art department chairman. Other panel members are Ray Hellberg, Evelyn Remek, Maynard Gunter, Ernel Anderson, Lee Knell, and Dale Fletcher, all graduate instructors in the art department.

The 13 paintings are from the collection of the Solomon R. Guggenheim gallery in New York City.

Students who "don't absolutely need to use library facilities" are urged to use the McKay Building rooms to leave space for those who need to work in the library, Miss Rich said.

Three rooms have been set aside for study.

Room 212-213 will be open from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Mondays through Saturdays, room 263 will be open from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Monday through Thursday and room 115 will be open from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Opening of rooms in the McKay Building for study is expected to ease crowded conditions in the Grant Library which make it necessary, oftentimes, for students to sit on steps to study.

Greek Tragedy, 'Oedipus Rex' Coming Dramatic Production

by Valerie Hill
Daily Universe Writer
Rehearsals are now under way for "Oedipus Rex," a Greek tragedy by Sophocles, which will be presented next Wednesday to Saturday in the Smith Auditorium.

Directed by Dr. Harold I. Hansen, chairman of the speech department, "Oedipus" provides overwhelming drama. The play is a marvel of suspense, pace, and mounting excitement.

The story tells how the king, ignorant of his unnatural situation, tracks down every particle of evidence that ultimately brings him face to face with his own pollution.

Oedipus is played by Dr. Lael J. Woodbury, Provo. His wife, Jocasta, is played by Georgia Faux, also of Provo.

Other members of the cast include Thomas Macaulay, Oakland, Calif.; Charles Whitman, Montpelier, Ida.; Mai Goughly, Provo; Nathan Smith, Wendell, Ida.; Gary Stewart, Karpville; Maké Blaisdell, Hauula, Hawaii; and Randy Buchanan, Venice.

Attendants are Richard Davis, Payson, and Bonnie Eddington. The chorus consists of Randy Buchanan, Donald Dew, Charles Nackus, Boyce Harris, Brad Powell, Stan Porter, Robert Bank, Bill Seuthwell, and Rick Johnson.

Dr. Hansen is assisted by technical director Robert Struthers. Winnifred Bowers is in charge of costume design.

According to Dr. Hansen, tickets went on sale Thursday at the Smith Information booth. Reserved seats are free to students with the presentation of their activity cards.

BYU Checks Delayed

Payroll checks for Brigham Young University employees will be delayed half-a-day Friday.

Intercollegiate Association of Women's Students state convention, "Future at Our Fingertips," will be held Saturday at Brigham Young University, according to Chairman Jeanne Wilkins.

One hundred representatives from all Utah universities are expected to attend the event.

The welcome session at 9 a.m. conducted by Bonnie Berrett, Associated Women Students president, will feature guest speakers, Dean Wesley P. Lloyd and Mrs. Lillian C. Booth, counselor of women.

University of Utah, Utah State and BYU representatives will hold discussion sessions on "How to Improve Inter-School Relations."

Coeds in 30 Heritage Halls apartments will furnish baked ham luncheons for the guests. Presidents of the dorm councils chose the girls to prepare the luncheon.

Snow, Slick Slopes Don't Detour IK's From 'Y' Lighting Tradition

by Jerry Molloy
Daily Universe Writer

LIGHTING THE "Y" is the spirit of Brigham Young University becoming visible before students.

Last Saturday as many were going to the various homecoming dances, they beheld in the eastern sky, (actually on "Y" Mountain), a beautiful outlined block "Y." Perhaps many women came into being.

The lighting is done by the Intercollegiate Knight pages as a requirement before being knighted.

This service is among those the I. K.'s perform for the student body.

THE PROJECT began at 5 p.m. Saturday on the east lawn of the Social Hall. There were 16 pages present, directed by Knight Jim Thorne, Provo.

The decision was made by Paul Webb, president of the I. K.'s, that although it was snowing and the "Y" could not be seen, they would keep the old tradition of lighting the "Y" for Homecoming.

First they obtained a truck in which they collected the necessary materials from various places about Provo, By about 6:30 p.m., they reached the top of "Y" mountain.

HERE THE pages barchanded, in the snow make the "gook" used in lighting the "Y." Then each took a bucket or two of (a mixture of mattress sand grease) and proceeded the snowy road.

Trouble began as they up the straight slopes and buckets slid back or for every two steps up.

The snow finally stopped the clouds at times hid view of the valley below.

Overcoming obstacles, reached the "Y" shortly 8 p.m. The pages then p to "gook" the "Y" and the necessary preparation.

THEN CAME A short w the chimes on campus co heard striking 9 p.m.

With lighted torches the started in an orderly lighting the "Y" as the rang the Victory Bell in.

After 9 p.m. the clouds and visibility was clear valley below was a part of lights to behold.

Entries will be judged by members of the secretarial department, journalism department and Banyan staff. Winning letter writer will receive a free Banyan, said.

Deadline for entries, in Banyan and Journalism office, November 21, Phelps added.

Preference Ball Preparations

IS HE WORTH IT?—At 6:45 a. m. Anita Van Natter, Wheat Ridge, Colo., wonders if any man is worth the effort of getting down to the Eyring Science Center so early and waiting in a long line merely to prefer him for a dance date.

POSTMAN RINGS TWICE—Lorin Yeates, Denver, Colo., feels that the efforts of Miss Natter were entirely worth while as he opens his mail box to find an invitation to take her to "Estrellita" the 1956 Preference Ball.

"I'M SO GLAD"—After receiving his invitation Yeates calls up Miss Natter to let her know that he was pleased by her invitation and will be happy to be her preferred man for the dance being held Nov. 17 in the Social Hall, Smith Fieldhouse and National Guard Armory.

NOW WHO PAYS?—Turn-about is fair play as long as it doesn't become a steady thing, decides Miss Natter, as she buys her ticket for the ball. "Men should feel flattered that we go to all this trouble and worry and then are willing to pay for it," she thinks.

PROBLEM OF THE DAY—What to wear to the ball presents the final problem to Miss Natter as she mentally debates dresses, colors and styles in trying to decide. The Preference Ball is semi-formal, and she wants to look her loveliest.

SHALL WE DANCE—Leaving for the Ball at last, Miss Natter and Yeates are dressed in their best and planning to enjoy the evening. Both are sure that the work and worry of Preference Week are well worth it.

Coach Allan Davis has worked his backs all week on ball handling and pass reception. With the Cougars averaging 40 passes per game in recent contests, stress is being placed on "bad pass" reception to increase the effectiveness of quarterback Carroll Johnston's prolific passing.

THE PIONEERS have presented the Brighams with a defensive problem. Although they are a Split-T team, the Coloradans use disconcerted unbalanced line. According to Coach Harold Kopp, Denver used this formation effectively against San Jose State last weekend. San Jose fell to the Pioneers 35-26.

Denver shifts into their unbalanced line expecting to carry the defense along with them and then shoot off the weak side, explained Coach Kopp. The Cougars don't plan to shift with them.

THE CATS are also planning to adjust their passing attack knowing that the Pioneers will be expecting a continual barrage of aeriels. "They'll probably rush us hard with seven and eight man lines. Rushing is the best defense against passing," Coach Kopp pointed out.

Apparently New Mexico made a fatal mistake in not rushing the Cat passers, sometimes having as many as seven men back on pass defense.

The contest looms as a battle between two light, speedy teams. Denver relying mostly on quick-breaking ground plays and BYU on the strong right arm of Carroll Johnston. However, Denver is dangerous in the air also, with its halfbacks doing most of the throwing.

THE COUGARS are in good shape for the expected rugged tussle with Denver. Weldon Jackson, out with a back injury for two weeks, is expected to be available for full-time duty if necessary. Johnston is healthy and can count on support from both Wayne Startin and Don Dixon in the passing department.

The Cougars will probably open with the same lineup that faced New Mexico last weekend: Ed Hunt and Tom Clark at ends, Dick Ralph and Wayne Ash at tackles, guards are Jay Weenig and Jim Taylor. Lynn Reading, defensive signal caller and linebacker, will open at center.

The Cat backfield will tentatively be Johnston at quarterback, Bert Bullock and Johnny Woods at the halves and Ron Jacobson at fullback.

FROM THE

SPORTS DESK

by Jerry Cunningham

SATURDAY WILL mark the first time in many a moon that Brigham Young University football fans can go to a game reasonably sure that they can sit back and watch their team walk over the opposition.

When it comes to winning football, fans in the Provo area aren't just hungry—they're famished. But, with the varsity's triumph over New Mexico under their belts, the fans shouldn't be starved to find their way back into BYU Stadium at 1:30 when the freshmen will serve them a sumptuous pigskin banquet.

AND IT'S NOT that the Kittens won't have any opposition. Snow Junior College has a fair-to-middlin' ball club. After they were only edged one touchdown by one of the finest junior colleges in the West, Dixie. So it should be a good game Saturday.

What's that? Did somebody say that BYU's frosh got p Dixie, 53-6?

AT THE BEGINNING of the year, BYU's freshman team looked great on paper—lots of brawn, speed and depth, liberally peppered with all-state prepsters. So we printed big, glowing reports of how BYU would have a great freshman team.

But there were many Cougar fans—on campus and off—who had seen other "great-on-paper" BYU teams fall miserably in Brigham Young's notorious football quagmire after they got into competition.

SO WE WATCHED these skeptics condescendingly read glowing reports with tongue in cheek. Yes, a lot of people thought it was all ballyhoo. Some of them even told us so.

Then came a report from Logan on a cold Thursday afternoon that the two-touchdown underdog Kittens had tromped Utah State 31-7. That score raised a lot of eyebrows. The subsequent smashing victory over Dixie should have convinced even the worst of the carping critics that BYU has got a freshman football team this year.

THE KITTENS MAY be a collection of high school all-stars but they are anything but "prima donnas." They are the hard-working bunch of kids I've ever worked with," their coach, M. Tolbert, has often said. They've practiced hard, worked hard and played hard all year.

They deserve our support Saturday afternoon. There's no guarantee that they'll win, of course, but we will promise this: They give it all they've got.

Secret Weapon? ...

FROSH GAME FREE

Students will be admitted to the Brigham Young University freshman-Snow College football game Saturday on their activity cards.

It will be necessary, however, to show activity cards at the gate. Seats will be on a first come, first served basis.

"Slugger," a "King Cole," "Flipper," a "Wild and Wooley," a "Rowdy," a "Volcano," "Flash," a "Stoppin'," a "Machine Gun," and an "Ol' Dad."

Frosh Mentor Max Tolbert supplements his coaching ascribing appellation nicknames to his players. Hence, the Barber defense will have to stop Kitten backfield of "Flash Chamberlain," "Stoppin'" Start "Spoke" Hubbs and "Machine Gun" Joe McGinn.

SNOW BACKS will be running into such linemen as "Tripper" Freestone and "Elvis" Kader, guards; Lennie Denny, "The Menace" and "Rowdy" Reeve, tackles; "Rocky" Flier center, and "King Cole" Bloh and "Flipper" Merrill, ends.

Others who will see action against Snow are "Volcan Kapele, tackle, "First Dow Brown, "Rip" Ringwood, a "Slugger" Reese, fullbacks; a "Wild and Wooley" Woolstenhulme, end. The "Ol' Dad" Jay Godlman, guard.

"MUGGSY" MAX Tolbert, typical pessimistic coach, reports that his team is in better physical condition despite serious injuries. Asked how his team stacked up against Snow, the coach grinned broadly, guess we're underdogs again.
